NEW YORK (AP)—Four major airlines affected by a nationwide strike of flight engineers announced plans Sunday night to furlough about 60,000 employees Monday if no settlement is reached. The move would virtually shut down operations of the lines.

The move came as the strike neared the end of its third day despite the personal intervention of Labor Secretary Arthur Goldberg.

Pan American, Trans World, American and National agreed that unless the strike ends Monday they will have to begin furloughing the bulk of their employees.

There was no formal announcement by the airlines, but spokesmen for the carrier confirmed that the move would be taken.

The airlines said that despite the furloughs, emergency flight service would be continued where needed. Some lines planned skeleton service.

No Word Yet

The furloughs would affect about 15,000 Pan American employees, 20,000 Trans World workers, 20,000 American Airline workers and 3,200 National workers.

Eastern Airlines said they had no furlough plans at this time.

There was no immediate word as to any possible similar plans by Western Airlines, which has headquarters in Los Angeles.

Goldberg remained in New York overnight following a speaking engagement and conferred by telephone with the parties involved in the dispute.

"I can't report progress or lack of progress," he said. "I am just awaiting developments."

The engineers union then ordered the Pan American workers back on their jobs following President Kennedy's request for a 60-day cooling-off period. The order, however, had little effect.

Brown later said the men were protesting a Feb. 6 decision of the Federal Mediation Board. The decision ordered the engineers to join the Air Line Pilots' Association as one single bargaining unit.

We are not going back," said Sy Korn, a spokesman for flight engineers in the New York area.

"We are going to stand on our own rights as individual workers."

He said it was not an "issue of more money—our jobs are at stake. This is the sole issue in this thing."

In most cases, the only planes being operated by the affected airlines were twin-engine ships not requiring a flight engineer, or jet and four-engine planes with supervisory personnel taking the flight engineer's seat.

Trans World said about 98 per cent of its domestic service was knocked out.

American reported it planned about 50 or 60 flights, using twin-engine ships. Normally it has about 1,200 flights daily.

Pan American canceled more than 75 per cent of its flights,

Eastern, which normally uses twin-engine planes on 37 per cent of its flights, said service was being maintained on a 50 per cent of normal basis.

National's service was cut from 100 flights daily to about 17.

A spokesman for Western said from the start of the work stoppage until noon Sunday it had operated 21 flights and canceled 84 throughout its system.

Police Fight Off Patrice Supporters

LONDON (AP)—A train loaded with valuable freight steams through a mountain pass.

In the brush alongside the track raiders are waiting. Metal glints in the sunlight.

Up a steep grade puffs the locomotive, and the raiders break from cover and climb aboard. Seconds later packing cases are being hurled from the train. The bandits leap to the ground and vanish into the hills.

The whisky raiders have struck again on the border between Scotland and England.

"It's a Wild West atmosphere up there," says William Gay, head of railroad police for the state-run British Transport Commission.

Gay has been assigned to stamp out a wave of crime on the rail route which straddles through the rolling hills of the Scottish lowlands into the north of England. This is the route used by Scots distillers to export cases of whisky down to England for consumption at home and abroad.

In the last five months raiders have struck weekly and spirited away whisky worth $4,000 pounds—$23,520.

So far, seven arrests have been made by railroad police studying the bandits' hideouts on lonely stretches of border country.

"This is our most serious crime epidemic ever," said investigator Gay. "Last year thefts of wine and spirits in rail transit amounted to $98,000."

The bandits use metal grappling hooks to cling to the sides of the moving cars after leaping aboard. Then they smash their way inside and start tossing out cases of whisky.

Within a few days the stolen Scotch is on sale in Scottish bars instead of being poured down English throats or being loaded aboard ships bound for the United States.

Gay said a special bureau has been set up in London to coordinate the campaign against the whisky raiders.

"It can't be allowed to go on," he said. "This is Britain, not the Wild West."

OLD METHOD of gathering maple sap was to hang pail on hollow spile driven into tree. Sap would run out spile and fall into pail, then would be carried to "sap shanty" and boiled down.

Maple Syrup Time heralds Winter's End

By Peggy Bancroft

NEWFOUNDLAND — Warm temperatures of the past week, together with below-freezing temperatures at night, herald the approach of the maple syrup season hereabouts.

The preparations being made to tap for the hard-maple sap is an unmistakable sign of Spring in the Poconos—more certain than the appearance of the first robin.

The potential for making maple syrup and sugar in the Poconos is enormous, and hardly "tapped." Only a handful of families make it a really big project.

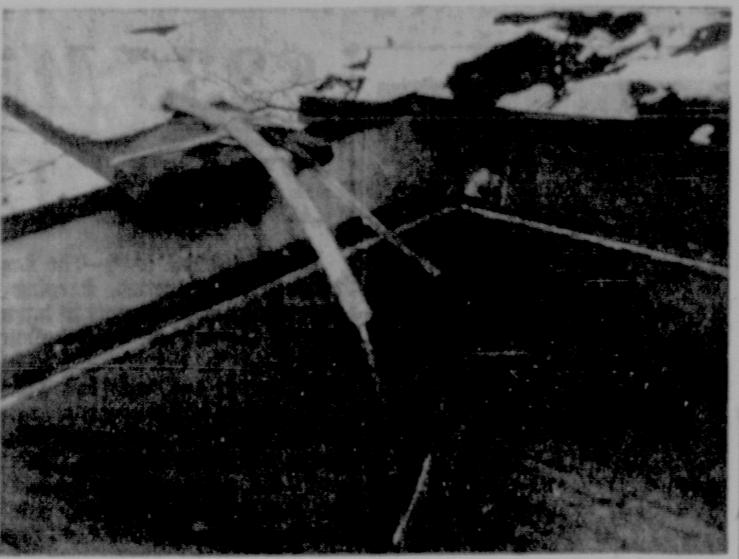

For every late-Winter season since 1892, the Friend Uhl family on the farm between Newfoundland and Panther has been the largest producer, tapping up to 1,000 trees, utilizing three motors and turning out fine maple syrup. This year, for the first time in 69 years, the groves will not be tapped.

Up in Sterling, Francis Curtis Jr. and his son, Ralph, are making preparations for the 1961 maple syrup season. Last year, they tapped 750 trees and this year plan to make it 1,000, thus increasing their 300-gallon output. The Curtises pioneered the use of plastic tubing in the area and Wayne County, installing it to convey the sap to the gathering tank. They have found it very useful, and have added to the footage each year. Only minor rodent damage has been noted.

"We've only had one area where the lines have been chewed by curious squirrels,"

NEW METHOD is to insert plastic tube around end of spile and let sap flow into larger tube that empties into tank at "sap shanty." Top photo shows two smaller tubes emptying into larger one. Sap is starting to flow into tank (bottom photo). Pictures were taken on Francis Curtis property, Sterling.

GOP Leaders Meet With Five Ousted Postmasters

EASTON—Five deposed Republican postmasters from Bangor, Pen Argyl, Stockertown, Easton and Bethlehem met Saturday with Republican leaders of Northampton County to review their situation.

County Chairman Harry E. Ragot said that it's now up to Rep. Francis E. Walter who nominated the five Democrats to replace the Republicans.

The meeting was reportedly called by the former postmasters and was held in the Northampton County Country Club.

Bethlehem GOP Chairman Royden C. Hutchison said that copies of newspaper articles which I cited that both Postmaster Donald F. Fischer, Bethlehem, and Postmaster Ada Meyers of Stockertown both failed standard postoffice examinations are being sent to Washington congressional leaders.

Hutchison added that the letters and clippings were sent to House Minority Leader Charles Halleck, Senate Minority Leader Everett Dirksen, Speaker Sam Rayburn and Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield. He also stated that Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) will be asked to insert the articles in the Congressional Record.

Ragot also charged that two veterans who passed the postal examinations were bypassed for Stockertown postmaster in favor of the woman who failed the test.

The woman, Mrs. Ada B. Meyers, was nominated by Rep. Walter.

The two who were overlooked are Edgar Rader and Frank Gerenser Jr., said Ragot.

Ragot declared that veterans' preference is a sham. He referred to previous objections of Congressman Walter to Republican acting postmasters in Easton and Bethlehem. The congressman contended the appointments were rigged examinations which kept out qualified veterans.

THIS YOUNG BUCK didn't live long enough to benefit from browse cut last week by Game Commission. LaMaar Price and John Kerz Jr., of Canadensis, found the deer, a victim of starvation, shortly after entering State Game Lands 221 near Mountainhome last Saturday. They carried buck about a half mile to boundary line where this photo was taken by John Valence.

Pack Of Dogs Kills Four Deer In County

MONROE County Game Protector John Doebling reported last night that 12 large dogs, traveling in a pack, have killed one deer each day for four consecutive days and that 12 additional deer have been killed by dogs in Monroe County this winter.

Doebling said the deer breaks through the crust as it runs from the dogs but the fast-moving dogs do not break through and thus easily overtake the white tails.

The State Game Commission announced its first state-wide tally of deer killed by the severe winter was 406. It added that this figure represents only a fraction of deer killed.

The report listed 18 deer killed in the Northeastern section of the state by people who have shot them as they were led to feeding places set up by the game commission and sportsmen.

Merton J. Golden, executive director of the State Game Commission, noted that three days of good weather have followed one another and that five such days would greatly alleviate the deer problem in most parts of the state.

Glenn Bowers, deputy executive director of the commission said he could not estimate the percentage of dead deer that have been found as it varies from area to area.

In addition to the deer illegally killed Bowers reported that 114 have been killed by dogs, 43 by automobiles as they sought food placed too close to the highways, and 24 by railroads as the deer went to feed at places along the tracks where feed had been dropped for them.

Thus far this year the game commission has given to sportsmen's clubs to distribute 158,993 bushels of corn. This is in addition to the 405 acres of browse cut by men of the game commission. Golden estimated the cost of feeding the animals this year at $300,000.

Of the 406 killed in the state the records show that in the northeastern division 98 deer were reported dead — 30 were killed by dogs, 29 by exhaustion-winter kill, 19 by automobiles, 18 illegally killed by shooting and two for crop damage.

Neither firemen nor Rheinhart gave an estimate of the damage but said it was very small. About 25 cattle which were in the barn escaped injury.

Now is the time to erect an enduring Memorial, an appropriate expression of love and respect to those near and dear.

Property At Cresco To Be Sold

DON CAREY'S Cliff View House in Cresco will be sold at a sheriff's sale Feb. 25 in Stroudsburg to satisfy a mortgage.

Thomas C. Gibbons, referee in bankruptcy, has vacated an order staying sale of the property presently owned by Geraldine A. Carey, 413 N. Apple St., Dunmore, widow of the former owner.

The sale is to satisfy a mortgage held by Lida I. Van Dyne.

The sale had been held up temporarily when Atty. Joseph Murphy, representing Mrs. Carey, obtained a rule from Chief Federal Judge John W. Murphy in Scranton to show cause why an injunction should not be issued.

The matter was referred to referee Gibbons who held a hearing and then ruled that the federal court lacked jurisdiction.

Swollen Stream Floods Homes

SILVER CREEK, N. Y. (AP) — Nineteen families were evacuated from their homes along Cattaraugus Creek Sunday as the rain-swollen stream spilled over its banks in its rush to Lake Erie.

Two days of rain and above-freezing temperatures turned the usually placid creek into a torrent. One to three feet of water flooded areas along its course.

The Irving Fire Department said it removed four families from their homes by boat. At least 15 more families near Sunspot Bay were being helped to higher ground.

Near Jamestown, south of here, several highways were reported closed because of flood.

Tom Waring Tribute Put In Record

A TRIBUTE paid to the late Tom Waring, of Shawnee, co-founder of Waring's Pennsylvanians, has been inserted in the Congressional Record under date of Feb. 13.

Congressman James E. Van Zandt, Altoona Republican, delivered the tribute Feb. 11 at a Lincoln Day dinner held by the Monroe County Republican Committee.

Upon returning to Washington, Congressman Van Zandt extended the remarks to the Congressional Record, where they appear on Page A892.

Waring was a native of Tyrone, Blair County, in Van Zandt's congressional district.

The congressman noted that Tom was endowed with a genius for understanding and generous friendship animated by Christian charity. He had great concern for the welfare of his fellow-man with the result that his civic pride knew no bounds.

Van Zandt cited Waring's countless accomplishments and interests in many fields and noted "he had the happy faculty of making friends among people in all walks of life."

Cadue, a resident of Tobyhanna for 33 years, is the first candidate to announce for the post. He polled more than 6,000 votes to win election to the board of auditors in 1959.

During 25 years of work for the Democratic party in Monroe, he has served as a member and treasurer of the Coolbaugh Township School Board and a committee man representing West Coolbaugh Township and the First Ward of East Stroudsburg.

In announcing his candidacy, Cadue said his background as a construction superintendent on many large projects requiring strict accounting procedures and cost analyses offers unique and valuable preparation for the job of county treasurer.

He is a high school graduate and has completed courses offered by the International Correspondence School in commercial law and finance.

Cadue is superintendent of the Tobyhanna Methodist Church Sunday School and president of the Tobyhanna Lions Club.

Interested in the problems and aspirations of young people, he is frequently engaged in work for Boy Scout Troop 91, Tobyhanna. He is a member of a number of civic and fraternal organizations. He and his wife, the former Pearl E. Daily, have four children.

Early Action Needed

Gov. David L. Lawrence has shown progressive foresight in recommending to the Pennsylvania Legislature the proposal to create a federal-interstate compact for the Delaware River Basin.

The idea to set up a governmental agency to administer the water resources of the basin already has gained the unanimous support of the governors of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and Delaware, and the mayors of Philadelphia and New York City.

Bills are now pending in both houses of Congress to extend federal approval to the draft, a step necessary before it can be put into effect.

The legislatures of the four states also must go along with the proposal, and here is where the greatest danger of delay is believed to exist.

Pennsylvania, which has dragged its feet in the past when similar drafts have come up, should show the way this time by being the first state to approve the pact.

With its Legislature now in session, Pennsylvania is in a good position to act promptly and we urge Gov. Lawrence to throw the entire weight of his administration behind the compact.

Equally important, he should have the active support of our own legislators in Harrisburg and, in fact, the bipartisan of all those counties bordering on the Delaware River and other affected areas. Since all of Pennsylvania would gain, either directly or indirectly, this would include the entire state.

It is not too much, therefore, to call for speedy action by the Legislature so there will be no delay—at least in our own domain—for early implementation of the program to develop the river's vast potential.

Educating Our Teachers

Those who have come to admire Dr. James B. Conant's manner and performance in appraising America's public education system will be pleased to learn of his next project.

Next September he will begin a two-year study of the preparation of teachers for the public schools. The Carnegie Corporation has announced it will underwrite the project with a $300,000 grant.

For the last three years Dr. Conant's work under Carnegie grants have produced "The American High School Today" and "Education in the Junior High School Years." Both works, widely acclaimed, were comprehensive and scholarly. And although mild in critical tone, both called for higher academic standards in the public schools.

The new study will challenge all of Dr. Conant's abilities. Whether or not America's teacher education institutions are doing a good job and what is right and wrong with existing methods of certifying teachers are questions that have provided an enduring debate for educators and the public.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

War On The U.N.

When Adal Stevenson accused Soviet Russia of making war on the United Nations, he stated in precise terms what the Congo situation really amounts to.

It must have been a shock to Stevenson to discover that he, the darling of the Liberals, was not immune to insults, demonstrations and abuse. He witnessed what a Soviet inspired attack can be.

Why the demonstration? Were these New York demonstrators, or those in Moscow or Belgrade or Warsaw Lumumba partisans? Obviously, these were Communist activities, organized as a phase of the effort by Soviet Russia to destroy the United Nations, which, however weak it may be, has interrupted the Soviet conquest of the world for Marxism.

What Russia demands is the resignation of Dag Hammarskjold, Secretary-General of the United Nations and the substitution of a three-man secretariat, one to represent the Western powers, one the Soviet powers, and one the "positive" neutrals.

As the world is now organized, Soviet Russia could, on many issues, thus have a two to one vote, take over the United Nations and destroy it.

Patrice Lumumba may have been a patriot or a shnook. The Russians regarded him as their man, one of a number of African leaders underwritten by them. He was killed in the course of revolutionary action. During revolutions men get killed. They also kill. It will be Soviet strategy to make a martyr of Lumumba, perhaps to be worshipped as a saint.

I witnessed this type of activity in China where everything was, sometime or other, tried. Whereas Dr. Sun Yat-sen was a patriot and was the founder of the Republic, he was not in his later years, regarded favorably by most Chinese and he lived in a self-imposed exile in the French Concession.

Then he made a deal with Adolf Joffe, and Michael Borodin and General Blucher-Galeans were sent to China to help Dr. Sun make another attempt at revolution. On March 12, 1925, Dr. Sun died in Peking. Immediately the machinery was put into motion to transfix him into a deity. A mausoleum was built in Nanking on a high hill. I have forgotten what the exact number of steps were to reach the top—I believe it was 108. As one climbed up, it was for several years, I visited Dr. Sun early every afternoon. I know that he would have deplored such hocus-pocus. But it was of enormous propagandistic value, just as it has been of considerable value to the Chinese Communists that his widow, Mrs. Sun Yat-sen, threw in her lot with them rather than with Chiang Kai-shek to whom her sister is married.

President Kennedy is apparently surprised that the Russians, while making overtures to end the Cold War, are actually precipitating a Hot War in Africa. He said:

"I find it difficult to believe, that any government is really planning to take so dangerous and irresponsible a step."

The objective of Soviet Russia is to unite the entire world in the Marxist concept of life. Then there will be universal peace. To a Marxist, it is not absurd to take advantage of any opportunity that offers itself.

It has been Marxist strategy since the London Congress of the Russian Social Democratic Party in 1903. It was Marxist strategy in 1917 when Bolshevikism took over Russia. It is Marxist strategy today.

There is some blind spot in the American psychology that makes us tend to forget the central objective of Marxism, which is the conversion of the entire human race, to the philosophy, the sociology, the political and economic systems of Karl Marx as interpreted by Lenin.

This is the motive force of Soviet imperialism. The Congo is an incident in this effort; the United Nations has become an impediment.

The Pennsylvania Story

Demo Treadmill

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Administration Democrats — legislatively speaking — seemingly are running on a treadmill, their feet going faster with each passing year, with each passing month.

In a sense it is one of the most curious developments on Capitol Hill in many a moon — a development over which donkey riders have no control; one that is exasperating no matter in what light viewed.

Going back to the 1955 legislative session — when Democrats move into administration control in Pennsylvania for the first time in sixteen years — they had control of the executive branch, but not the legislative branch.

In that session under Democratic Governor George M. Leader, anti-administration Republicans controlled the 50-man State Senate — just controlled it — with 26 members, the exact number needed for organizational control and passage of legislation.

In the 21-member House of Representatives though, the administration did hold control — with the Democratic presiding officer and Lieutenant-Governor having the right to cast the deciding vote whenever there is a tie. (Of course anti-administration Republicans can prevent a tie vote whenever they wish, as they have done on occasion.)

That split Legislature exasperated Mr. Leader and fellow Democrats no end — and in

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbroc

Some people have a compulsion to count things—like telephone poles or steps. Other people can't pass somebody without noticing everything they have on from the feather on a hat to the fact that the heels of their shoes are run-over.

Still others, seeing a conversation in progress, can't resist until they know what it was about. My problem is that I read things: everything, from highway signs to headlines on papers in the newsstands to books lying open on chairs.

So matter how often I pass by the desk, the paper on top of it drew my eyes and I read the big black type "Why Grow Old?" It was very irritating because everytime I read it I found myself trying to answer it and a different way every time.

"Because I can't help it" was the most obvious answer. If you're not growing older, you're dead which is a state very few of us would prefer. But maybe it refers not to physical aging but to mental aging, I thought to myself.

But that would be pretty dull, too. There's nobody so beatified as the grown man who has childish tantrums; the aging belle of the ball who maintains her kittenish ways when her girth makes them ridiculous.

And if the passing years haven't deepened our understanding, increased our compassion and broadened our knowledge then we've been wasting our time. Why grow old? Well, why not?

Each phase of the proposed Council was discussed in detail with opportunities for criticism and suggestions which will be considered at the meeting of the Development Committee in Stroudsburg on March 21.

Sheer Genius. That's the name of a new, complete make-up in liquid form created by Max Factor and sold at Wyckoff's. Sheer Genius is also the beautiful difference between looking nice and looking heavenly.

This exciting new makeup comes in a tube, resembling a toothpaste tube, and is creamy and smooth. It also comes in several color groupings: sallow or olive skinned types would use shades in the Beige-Rose or Rose-Beige groupings, or the Beige Tone group. Florid or rosy skinned types would use shades in the Beige Rose or Beige Tone groups, or occasionally in the Rose-Beige classification, and normal skin would select from either of the three groups.

In the Beige Tone group the shades are Fair Dawn and Soft Beige; in the Beige-Rose group they are Fair Dawn, Tempting Touch, Candle Glow and Gay Whisper, and in the Rose-Beige group they are Truly Fair and Twilight Blush.

It is difficult to explain an idea as revolutionary as this in a newspaper column, so my suggestion is that you ask Esther Ainspan or Pearl Walters for a personal explanation.

One of the nicest things they can tell you about Sheer Genius is that it costs only 1.50 and its unbreakable plastic tube is lightweight and a perfect traveling companion. Nice for carrying, it fits the purse both money-wise and package-wise.

Hands down, I bet I'm among the people who received the "corniest" Valentines ever designed. As a matter of fact, mine was signed, "A corny Valentine from an old farm girl," and I found it on my desk the day after Valentine's Day. It is the work of Alice (Mrs. Wendell) Wicks, who is easily the most all-around gifted person I know. I'm sure there isn't anything Alice Wicks can't do, if she sets her mind to it. Not only is she a perfect farmer's wife, but she can make strikingly unusual jewelry, indoor gardens—name it, and she has the "know how." This particular Valentine is in the form of a very graceful heart made of crepe paper.

Others present were Marijane Everett, Marquette Schultz, Ruth Kreger, Lillian Kreger, Kathryn Snyder, Mabel Murphy, Rosa Welliver, Helen Dunlap, Jennie Burger, Margaret Schubert, Rosa Shupp, Lydia Deibert and Stella Kreger.

Florence Predmore has asked me to mention that we've received a new shipment of Ideals Scrapbooks. These are priced at 1.00, are one of the many colorfully printed, gloriously illustrated Ideals publications, and give you all the thrill of owning a scrapbook without having snipped one poem, picture, or story. You find these in our Wyckoff stationery department.

Bolt, Sullivan 2ndHill Wins Tucson Golf After 3-Hole Playoff

By MURRAY SINCLAIR

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Dave Hill, a 23-year-old rookie from Jackson, Mich., dropped a birdie on the third hole to win the $20,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament in a sudden death playoff with Tommy Bolt and Buddy Sullivan.

The three had finished the regulation 72-holes of the 5.464-yard, par-up El Rio Country Club course with 11 under par 269s.

All three took par-4 on the 368-yard No. 1 hole and the 450-yard second hole. On the 343-yard No. 3 hole Sullivan was trapped, Bolt was 50 yards to the right of the pin and Hill was in the middle of the fairway 50 yards from the hole.

Long Putt

Hill's second shot was long and went off the far side of the green. Hill then sank a 27-foot putt for a birdie.

Monti Wins Title

By JACK CLARY

Associated Press Sports Writer

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Rain and warm weather gave Italy's Eugenio Monti has second straight grand slam by default in the World Four-Man Bobsled Championship Sunday and sent American ace Stan Bernham unhealthily into retirement.

Temperatures near 50 turned the usually slick and hazardous mile of the Olympic chute to un-navigable slush, canceling the final two heats. That gave Monti the title on the basis of Saturday's opening pair of heats—by three-tenths of a second over Bernham.

Bernham, the veteran from Lake Placid who was a world champion in this breakneck sport in 1949, dejectedly called it quits.

Last Run

"I thought I had a good chance," he said as he stood in the melting snow on Mt. Van Hoevenberg. "But I ran my last race yesterday."

Monti, who said, "I wanted to race; I don't consider this a championship," sped down the Olympic run in identical times of 1 minute, 9.2 seconds Saturday for a 2:18.4 total.

Bernham, holder of the course record of 1:08.88, completed his first heat in 1:09.22, and was timed in 1:09.48 for the second. That gave him a total of 2:18.7 toward the title, which is based on aggregate time for the usual four heats.

Monti, who won his fifth straight two-man title here last weekend, and Bernham were followed by Gunnar Ahs of Sweden, 2:19.09; Franz Schelle of Germany, 2:19.27; Bill McCowan of Great Britain, 2:19.44, and Larry McKillop of Saranac Lake, N.Y., driving the No. 2 U.S. sled, 2:19.85.

Italy's No. 2 sled, driven by former champion Sergio Zardini and considered a top threat, was disqualified for finishing without a full crew aboard. Zardini's brakeman was bounced off at treacherous Our Z-zag Curve in the first heat.

ALUMINUM roof shingles in wood-grain embossed colors are now on the market. They have a four-way interlocking feature designed to withstand hurricane winds. The manufacturers say that, because of aluminum's thermal properties, the shingles will reduce heating and air-conditioning costs. Volvo Shops For Standard Parts STANDARD quality in auto parts is a subject Americans are very familiar with. Detroit's Big Three have led the way to balance production and quality for top performance, original and replacement parts.

Foreign car producers are meeting this challenge to successfully compete in the U.S. market. Sweden's Volvo, for example, literally shops the world for component parts built into the Volvo line.

According to John Baylor of Baylor Motors, Volvo dealer in Stroudsburg, the thinking behind this world shopping is to select parts of the highest quality which are designed to specification by Volvo automotive engineers. In fact, Baylor points out, Volvo maintains purchasing offices in England, Germany, France and the U.S. for this purpose.

For example, Baylor explains, the Volvo electrical system is made to specification by Vandervell of England, axle assembly by Spicer and brakes by Wagner of the U.S., glass from Belgium. American parts account for a whopping 23 per cent of each Volvo car. To make doubly sure they've chosen right, all materials and components, down to every bearing, piston ring and valve, are tested out in an elaborate laboratory at Volvo's main assembly plant, Baylor adds. Another basis for parts selection is that they be easily available at every Volvo sales center here.

Baylor reports that as an average Volvo dealer, Baylor Motors carries a steady inventory of specially designed Volvo parts to more than adequately service each car sold. This takes in the full complement of so-called critical parts such as for engine, driveline and axle, electrical and suspension systems; the normal wear-and-tear replacement parts such as brake parts, upholstery, glass and accessories; and the important collision items like king pins, steering knuckle, upper and lower front arm in front and rear suspension.

Because of the immediate availability of Volvo parts, Baylor adds, throughout the country. As long as its power is given proper respect, it will perform wonders in the saving of time and effort. Many safety features have been built into these saws since they first were introduced, among them special clutch arrangements designed to eliminate cuts-back. But they must still be handled carefully, the most important thing being to give the saws your undivided attention. Never, never look up to talk to someone while you are operating the saw. Incidentally, with the use of special blades, these saws now can cut ceramics, slate, marble, tile and many other materials as well as wood.

ANSWER: There was a time when only the building industry used portable circular saws, their big advantage being that they could be brought right to the building sites and used for many cutting operations. Then some stores and dealers began to rent such machines to the public for tough construction jobs. Finally, the manufacturers began to put out smaller models within reach of the average pocketbook.

The Daily Investor*Yield On Investment

By William A. Doyle
I disagree with what you had to say about Founders Mutual Fund. I am investing in this fund through its systematic payment plan and have firsthand experience with its disadvantages. I'll list them. The yield is less than two per cent. Most of the brokerage commission is taken out during the first year's payments into the plan. It takes many years before the investor even breaks even. In addition to the brokerage fee, nine per cent is taken out for administration.

What are your comments now?

A. Some of the statements you make are right. Some are the result of misunderstanding. Some are dead wrong.
